Gender Base Violence	Gender-based violence is a phenomenon deeply rooted in gender inequality, and continues to be one of the most notable human rights violations within all societies. Gender-based violence is violence directed against a person because of their gender. Both women and men experience gender-based violence but the majority of victims are women and girls. Gender-based violence and violence against women are terms that are often used interchangeably as it has been widely acknowledged that most gender-based violence is inflicted on women and girls, by men. Eliminating Child Labor	After the civil war in Liberia, it has been difficult for her to put an end to child labor practices. According to the ILO 2006 report Liberia is one of the country that has worst form of child practices. The knowledge about child labor is relatively weak. The gross roots of commitment to reduce child labor are poor in Liberia. Child Labor instances are rampant across the country and they primarily exist in the mining, agricultural, homes and informal sectors in Liberia. For such reasons, child labor is view in Liberia as something only taking place outside the child home. CONTRACT BUSINESS FOR WOMEN	Traditionally, African women are believed to be majorly for the kitchen and the other room. However, with the downward trend of global economy with recessionary consequences, many women have put on the garb of amazon breadwinners in their families. Daughters and mothers now publicly argue for the family upkeep financially paying bills and rents along with their brothers and fathers. Is it not then very appropriate to empower such women in the arts and science of high profit making ventures like contract businesses? July 18 #HeroWeek	In every day we wake up to heroism. The greater challenge is in choosing how and to whom we act out our heroism towards. One can choose be a hero to themselves by giving themselves an excellent breakfast to start their morning, or they could take it an extra mile by preparing a lunch pack to give to a homeless person on their way to work/school/anywhere. We could be heroes to ourselves by keeping warm, or take it an extra mile by giving away a jacket to the homeless.
